RURAL CREDITS.

Is One of the Most Important Questions Before Congress.

The problem of creating an adequate rural credit system is one of the most important questions before Congress from the farmers' standpoint. This statement was made by President E. B. Cornwall of the Vermont Farm Bureau federation, who has recently returned from a trip to Washington in this connection.

"It seems advisable to set up some system similar to the War Finance corporation," said Mr. Cornwall. This system should be constructed so that it can take care of the needs of the farmers in all parts of the country. Credit should be provided on agricultural commodities in warehouses and on livestock, and grain and fertilizer in transit or in warehouse for future use. It should be possible to obtain this credit through banks or co-operative loan organizations, and co-operative marketing and buying organizations. Whenever possible, the proper medium is the local bank and we believe there will be little difficulty in working through the banks provided there is a permanent credit system and agricultural loans can be re-discounted from six months to three years' time.

At the present time the limit for re-discounting through the federal reserve is six months. We believe that any prejudice towards this sort of loan on the part of the bankers will be removed by the three considerations of a permanent credit system, the length of the time limit and the possibility of obtaining credit through other organizations when the bank machinery fails to act.

There are a number of different measures before Congress. Most of them provide for an inter-relationship between the rural credit system and the federal reserve so that the farm loans can be re-discounted through the federal reserve bank during the last six months before maturity. There has been less need for this sort of credit in the east than in the west and south. There is a need, however, and we believe that those banks which are anxious to co-operate with the farmer and his organizations will welcome the opportunity to use this system. The need may be greater now that the grain committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce has officially solicited financial aid from all grain dealers in New England to fight the farmer's co-operatives."

ULTIMATE FATE OF CROWNS.

Loss of Hapsburg Diadem Calls Attention to Value as Museum Exhibit.

The jewel-studded crown of the Hapsburgs, former rulers of Austria-Hungary, has been stolen from the Spanish consulate in Vienna. The crown is of no particular intrinsic value, but historically it is priceless. Shortly after the revolution began the diadem was taken from a convent, where it had been hidden by members of the royal family, to the Spanish consulate in Vienna, for safe keeping. Recently a forged receipt is said to have been presented and the crown removed.

Collectors throughout Europe and this country have been warned against purchasing the diadem. As a matter of fact it is difficult for the layman to understand what present value the crown has save as a relic in some museum. Crowns and their wearers in recent years have become something of a drug on the markets of the world. —San Francisco Chronicle.

What Every Dog Knows.

Constant chewing clears away bones. Torn ears will happen. There's no pastime like the hunt. All the world likes a paw-giver. Children in danger are friends indeed. What is so rare as a ride in a motor car?

Chasing a ball is its own reward. Nothing succeeds like swimming. A rat under a paw is worth two in a hole.

It's never too early to bark at a tramp. The moon makes howlers of us all.

The proper welcome of master is jumping up on him. A little whipping now and then is meted out by the best of men.

Uneasy lies the head that's filled with dreams. It's always great weather when a boy and a dog get together.

Incomparably, the name is sat. See a bed and these it up. In time of fire, bark. Run up to meet others as others run up to meet you.

It's a long night that has to be passed in the cellar. You can't keep a bruised hind leg down.—E. J. K. to Life.

ON AMBERGRIS HUNT.

Members Figures That Currents Will Carry Floating Supply Up Into Bering Sea.

An expedition has left Seattle, Wash., for Bering sea to search for ambergris, which is now more precious than gold. There is a decided shortage of ambergris in the market, and as yet substitute containing the same properties has been discovered.

This substance, which is a morbid growth in the whale's intestines and ejected into the sea, where it floats until found, is used in the factories making perfume. It contains a property needed to hold various chemicals in solution.

Near the mouth of the Yukon river is said to be a virgin for ambergris. Actions of various currents tend to congregate all floats into one gigantic whirlpool, and the expedition has been undertaken in the hope of finding ambergris in it.—New York World.

MUST FILE CLAIM.

Within Four Years in Order to Get Refund on Internal Revenue.

The following statement is issued by Robert W. McCuen, collector of internal revenue, for the district of Vermont:

Internal Revenue Law Decisions.

Following recent decisions in the supreme court of the United States in the cases of the Union Trust company et al, executors, versus Wardell, Collector, and Schwab, executor, versus Doyle, Collector, the statement was published that it would not be necessary for estates to file claims for refunds to which they were entitled under such decisions.

The existing regulations provide for the refunding of estate taxes only upon the filing of a claim thereafter by the taxpayer. It will, therefore, be necessary for all taxpayers who are entitled to a refund of estate taxes by reason of the above entitled decisions to make formal claim, therefore, on form 843, which claim should be filed with the collector for the district wherein the tax was paid for transmission to the office of the commissioner of internal revenue for appropriate action.

Section 3228, revised statutes, as amended by section 1316 of the revenue act of 1921, provides that all claims for the refunding or crediting of any internal revenue tax alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected must be presented to the commissioner of internal revenue within four years next after payment of such tax. Consequently estate taxes affected by the above decisions can only be refunded provided a claim therefor is filed within four years next after the payment of such taxes.

CHANGE OF LIFE WOMAN'S TRIAL

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois. — "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time, when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all there is to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting tired. I know of several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines."—Mrs. EMMA CULVER, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.
